Thinking Out Loud

MANKIND UNITED IS DISCUSSED BY THE MULLINS FAMILY

By EDW. C. UREN

William P. Mullins lounged languidly in the only cushioned chair. A half smoked El Ropo protruded from his unshaven face. From time to time, as the cigar burned down, ne deftly flicked the ashes into the cuff of his trousers leg in order to save unnecessary and perhaps violent argument with the little woman.

Mamie, his honey bunch and better half physically a very capable woman, was busy with duties in the kitchen, while Kayo, the family brat was amusing himself by pulling the wings off flies he had captured.

William believed in taking life easy and his principal physical effort was getting his pants and shirt on in the morning and taking them off at night. Right now he seemed very much interested in a small book he was reading labeled "Mankind United."

"Honey," he called, "You know if I had $2.50 I and you could go places. We could have a beautiful home and live like Roosevelt's economic royalists are supposed to live."

"Well, you lazy, good-for-nothing loafer, you'll get no $2.50 out of me for any of your fool ideas," says Mamie.

"Yes, but look now, sugar, what it says here in this book I been reading. It says that the puchase of the first copy of this book for $2.50 entitles me to honorary membership in the International Institute of Universal Research. This puts me in high society, can't you see?"

"Listen, sugar plum, while I read you some more of this. "Our institute will prevent war, disband the world's armies and navies and change the cannon and swords into plow shares. It will guarantee every man, woman and child on earth lifelong financial independence, development of individual talents, leisure and literally unlimited opportunity for free world travel."

"Just think of it, sweetheart, It says "enough machinery, executors, trained workers, resources and raw materials are available to produce a 20 course meal and a full change of wearing apparel every hour of the 24, for every man, woman and child on earth for millions of years."

"Well, I ain't never went to no college," says Mamie, "but if you had a ounce of brains in that thick skull of yours, you wouldn't swallow all that tripe. Anyhow, as far as you are concerned, you heathen, I have to almost brain you to get you to change your clothes once a week. Who in heck wants to change their clothes every hour anyway."

"Now, now, honey, I wasn't figuring on being so clean as all that. But listen to this—"Wages for everyone, regardless of race, color, education or ability, will be $3000 a year. It will be gradually increased in ten years to $30,000, with various luxuries and necessities of life to every women and child throughout the world. "You see girlie, a man don't have to have a education to get in on this."

"Gee, you wouldn't have any trouble at all qualifying would you Uncle Willie?," piped Kayo.

"Well, Aunt Mamie says you're so dumb that you filled the catcher with water and put the pitcher under the bed the other night."

"Small boys should never be heard or seen Kayo. Go out and play with the chickens." Now, to resume my intellectual discourse where I was interrupted by that kid— "Only those who have either been invited or whose thoughts have been prepared by the book ($2.50) and who have acquired 100 or more copies will be invited to vote on our recommendations. We expect to replace gold and silver as a medium of exchange with some form of money that can never be accumlated nor spend; except by the one to whom it is issued."

At this point Moon Mullins, Kayo's big brother, who had been absorbed in reverie came to life. "You left out that part that tells about the fancy homes we can have."

Memorial Day Speaker Urges: "Let Nothing Swerve Us From Our Duty"--

"My Fellow Americans:

"We gather here today, to again pay tribute to the memory of those heroes of our United States who gave their all that this country might continue to live and to go forward, that we who now enjoy the liberties of a democratic form of government might continue the fight they so ably made in the formation of and in defense of our country."

With these words, E. K. Smart of Grass Valley, past American Legion Post commander and grand trustee of the Native Sons of the Golden West, opened his Memorial Day address in the Nevada City High School here Saturday.

Following the exercises at the high school, war veterans rode to the Pine Grove and Catholic cemeeries to conduct services. Flowers, donated by the children of the city, were placed on the graves.

In his address, Smart told of the origin of Memorial Day. It was proclaimed for every May 30th by General John A. Logan in 1863.

"Is it enough that we pause to decorate the graves of those who have gone before?" Smart asked. "Is it enough that we spend one day each year to pay tribute to their memory by means of literary and ritualistic services? The answer, obviously is "No."

"No," Smart continued, "we must carry the torch that they have passed on to us. We must continue each day to remember their sacrifices, to pledge ourselves to see that they have not died in vain.

"Again we are sending the best in America to foreign soils to wage the fight for liberty, for fight against barbarism, international gangsterism and dictatorship. Again America is leading the way to prove right is the master of might.

In conclusion, Smart said:

"I would like to briefly mention the sacrifices we on the home front must make. Let us, as civilians, back up our armed forces, let us as good Americans believing in democracy, deploring the sacrifice that must be made by our youth resolve on this Memorial Day that nothing shall swerve us from our duty in this great American emergency.

"If we hold the faih we can be certain, in the words of Abraham Lincoln, that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth!"

PROGRAM TO PRESERVE TIRES

The State Highway Traffic Advisory Committee to the War Department will carry on a five point program in Nevada County to prolong the life of all rubber borne transportation facilities and to promote the maximum use of mass transportation facilities.

According to an announcement by the committee's executive secretary, J. W. Vickrey, the program will include conservation of rubber and equipment, the staggering of hours of stores, offices, industries and the schools to relieve buses and street cars of peak loads and planned neighborhood group riding to and from stores, offices, industries and schools to common destinations.

Compliance with the 40 mile per hour speed proclamations issued by the president and the governor will be an objective.

Vickrey said the committee will work in an advisory and coordinating capacity with local officials. The committee will contact directly industries or groups isolated or remote from city jurisdiction.

The program is sponsored by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation to prevent a breakdown of vital transportation facilities needed to carry on the war effort.

Visit With Mrs. McPherson—

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thery of San Francisco visited several days here last week with Mrs. Cora McPherson, sister of Mrs. Thery. Mrs. McPherson is one of the "Macs" operating the Rainbow Inn.

Mr. And Mrs. James M. Kitts Observe 62nd Wedding Event

Mr. and Mrs. James Marmion Kitts, who for 47 years of their married life made their home at Town Talk, Saturday observed heir 62nd wedding anniversary.

Relatives and friends of the couple called at their home to extend congratulations and best wishes. Kitts is 87, Mrs. Kitts, is 80.

The Kitts reside in a cozy little home at Town Talk built for them by their grandson. Lieutenant William Edwards, who was killed in an airplane crash on the Mojave Desert about two months ago. The home is opposite the original family residence which is now occupied by a son, Charles Kitts and family.

Except for 15 years spent in Fallbrook in Southen California, Mr. and Mrs. Kitts resided all their lives at Town Talk.

The couple's seven living children are:

Joseph Kitts of Berkeley, an engineer; Clifford Kitts, retired miner and Darrel Kitts, miner, both of Grass Valley; Lindley Kitts, carpenter, of Sacramento; LeRoy Kitts, now in the employ of he United States government, Mrs. John Cloyd, of Sacramento and Charles Kitts of Town Talk.

AFL Union Will Seek Bargaining Agent Rights At Nevada Co. Mines

The Gold Miners Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, will meet Friday night in Grass Valley to determine what steps it will take in an effort to obtain bargaining agency rigrts at the mines in Nevada County.

It is probable the AFL union will appeal to the War Labor Board for assistance but inasmuch as gold mining is not considered an essential war industry some sources state the board will not consider stepping into the local picture.

In the meanwhile continuation for one year of the present contract the Nevada County Mine Workers Protective League holds with all large operating mines, except the Lava Cap, was voted about 5 to 1 by the independent labor union members Thursday.

A renewal clause was contained in the present contract, which expires June 30th, and the league members took advantage of the clause to continue the contract for anadditional year, until June 30, 1943.

A spokesman for the league said its members realize that because of war conditions the demand for wage increases or other changes in the contract would be unwarranted at this time.

Fred Searls, Jr., executive of the Newmont Mining Cororation, which operates four of the large mines in the county, pointed out in a letter to the protective league the present conditions facing gold mining operators and said men desiring high wages can get them in the shipyards or other war efforts industries.

The letter from Searls, who is one of three advisors to Donald Nelson in the directing of war effort, read in part:

"However, I have now checked around on the various (war industry) programs and have reached the conclusion that any Grass Valley miners desiring to leave, and who are not acceptable to the armed services for any reason, can do more good by getting into the merchant ship-building for one of the contractors in the employ of the Maritime Commission than in any other way.

"It looks now as though there would be acres of tanks and guns late this year that we won't be able to move. A good miner can turn his hand to anything and Ill bet some of the league's machine men could get in step with Henry Kaiser and cut down that 105 days which is the present world's record.

"We cannot, even if we wanted to compete with war wages and war industry, because the price of our product is fixed, and we are looked upon (as we shold be) as a non-essential industry during the war. Materials and supplies are hard to get, and more expensive, and we expect a tough time in making ends meet.

"We conceive it to be our duty, in the present emergency, to keep these mines open, if we can, without competing for either labor or materials with the more essential war industries. We have bought no machinery since the United States entered the war, and have sold some to war contractors. By closing some of our mines we have made their salvage and suplies available at Grass Valley. Some civilian industry must carry on, to support people who cannot find war work, and to pay the taxes. We think there are a good many Grass Valley miners who want to stay and want to work at present wages. We hope to provide them employment and to ask for and use a carefully minimized requirement of steel and other supplies so as to keep going. Some day the war will be over and to judge from the past, a Grass Valley job may again look pretty good. We would like to consider our regular employees who leave for the shipyards or other war work in the same light as though they had entered the armed services and have a job for them when they come back. We would also like to keep employed such old timers as are too settled to want to pull up stakes for more distant fields.

"We cannot, of course, undertake that we will do all of these things. Our operating expenses are about two and a half million dollars a year and if we cannot keep enough of a crew to come somewhere near meeting these, we will, of course, have to quit. If we do, we will try to shut one mine down at a time as we already have done with the Zeibright and Murchie and leave to the last the North Star where depth and heavy ground make doubtful its reopening.

"I cannot but believe that the league will agree that this general policy is the proper one for the company to follow. An other is less than patriotic in the present emergency, and I feel sure from my personal acquaintance with you and with a large number of the boys that we can hardly fail to see it the same way."

MINERS LOSE TO OROVILLE

The Grass Valley Miners were held to four hits by "Big Bill" Andrews yesterday afternoon in Oroville with the result the Olives took a 2 to 1 decision.

The loss lowered the Miners, who had been in second place in the Sacramento Valley League standings, to virtually a cellar spot tie with Oroville.

In the other game yesterday Chico defeated Marysville by a 6 to 4 score. The contest was featured by a triple play made by Marysville.

ORRIN LOWELL TO SPEAK HERE

Orrin J. Lowell, Auburn attorney and one of the trustees governing the Placer Junior College, will speak at the Nevada City Rotary Club meeting at the National Hotel Thursday night..

Lowell is an exceedingly able and interesting speaker and it is felt certain all local Rotarians will enjoy his address.

NEVADA CITYANS URGED TO SUPPORT CHINESE RELIEF

While Nevada City civic and fraternal organizations and many private individuals are giving wholehearted support to the Chinese Relief Fund parade and ball to be held in Grass Valley Saturday, Mrs. L. G. Lageson, chairman of the Nevada City Chinese Relief committee, reported today financial support is lacking.

Mrs. Iageson hopes Nevada City's quota of $250 will be attained before the parade and bowl of rice ball Saturday night. Tickets for the ball can be secured at the Chinese stores in this city, at Colley's Confectionery or from Mrs. Lageson.

The purchase of a single ticket to the ball may save a life of one of our Chinese allies. Mrs. Lageson pointed out in urging Nevada Cityans support the benefit.

Names Of Nevada County Men To Leave In Next Draft Call Announced

The names of those who will leave from Nevada County in the next draft call have been announced by Clerk Merle Morrison of the Nevada Selective Service Board. They are:

The Nevada City High School Parent Teachers Association is making arrangements for a farewell program in honor of the group.

Returns From Vacation—

Mrs. Ida Guenther returned Friday from a week's visit with her son, Charles Guenther, Jr., and family at Yreka. She was present for the high school graduation exercises at which her granddaughter, Miss Charlotte Guenther, was given her diploma.

Caught in the Riffles

Mysterious sounds are heard late at night emanating from a certain place in the Glenbrook section and if the noise results from what many persons believe it does there may soon be an injunction suit filed to abolish it. . . The Nevada City High School chorus has received the plaudits of many at various functions but the neglect of the chorus members to show up for their scheduled performance at the Memorial Day exercises at the high school has shed no luster on the group with a lot of people. And we don't blame Mrs. Libbey, chorus instructor, for being angry.

The Call-Bulletin Saturday night carried a picture of Nancy Jones, popular Nevada City Red Cross worker stationed with U. S. soldiers in Ireland. Remember when everyone was wondering what high school graduates were going to do. when there seemed to be no work for the thousands of students who received diplomas? How things change! Now they are even diping into the grammar schools to obtain workers to harvest fruit and vegetable crops, etc. Nevada City will be a dull place this summer. Most of the kids will be working at something to aid the war effort and the older people will eithe be working in their victory gardens or remaining home to hear the latest war bulletins on their radios. . . The AFL Gold Miners Union claims the majoity of the employes of the Idaho-Maryland Mines Corporation want the AFL named as bargaining agent and according to some members "we aren't going to give in like we did last year". . . Florence Tisher McBride will be missed by the courthouse staff. She has resigned, effective today. Miss Jean Rowe, daughter of Supervisor Frank Rowe, has been elevated to Mrs. McBride's position as deputy county clek and Rita Hutchison of Nevada City has been named by Clerk R. N. McCormack to fill the position in the clerk's office held by Miss Rowe before her advancement.

Nevada City does not forget the dead. That was proven by the profuse decoration of graves at the Pine Grove and Catholic Cemeteries on Decoration Day. Hardly a grave had been forgotten and many former residents returned to Nevada City to honor departed relatives.

Bert Foreman has resigned his position as manager of the Diamond Match Lumber Company branch here to work at Camp Beale. Almost every carpenter in the community is now employed on the cantonment job. This warm weather reminds us that the first hot day of the year a week or so ago resulted in the collapse of several of the workers from the heat. Think of the heat to come! And from now on there will be no quitting of jobs at the cantonment project. Since last Thursday a rule has been in effect that unless a worker offer a good excuse he cannot resign and expect to ever work on a defense job again. He will be an a "blacklist" as far as defense work contractors are concerned.

Joe Martin of Grass Valley intends to run for county treasurer. The Henwood cousins of Grass Valley are out for the position. Elsewhere on the political front: Public Administratar Lila Champion will be a candidate for reelection. The position is also sought by Ted Kohler, Jr. And about Thursday Eben K. Smart of Grass Valley will announce his candidacy for assessor.

WILL WELCOME WORTHY OFFICERS

Evangeline Chapter No. 9, of Nevada City and Aurora Chapter No. 40, of Grass Valley, Order of Eastern Star, will meet at the Masonic Hall in Nevada City tonight to extend a welcome to Worthy Grand Matron Corine Melville and Worthy Grand Patron Walker Petticord. It will be the worthy grand officers official visit to the Nevada City and Grass Valley chapters. Both chapters are uniting in the program to be presented. Refreshments will be served.

A BREAK FOR TAX REPEALERS

Seldom it is that news that taxes are going up is of help to anybody—since every citizen pays taxes. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good, however; and so last week's news that the House had voted to double the federal income tax in the lower brackets broke at a time favorable to taxpayer groups now circulating petitions to place repeal of the California State income tax on the ballot at the fall election.

Congressmen really lowered the boom on the little fellow! Personal exemptions are dropped to $500 for single persons, and $1200 for married couples. The surtax on the smallest of incomes is upped from 6 to 12 per cent. That is taxing where it hurts—taxing down to the dimes and two-bit pieces that normally go for beer and cigarettes and cokes! It hits the chap who earns $12 a week—and the earners of $20 and $30 and $40 and $60 a week; hits 'em all hard!

The average income-tax paying Californian, knowing that he has to pay a state income tax on top of that federal tax, when California is out of the red and has no need for the money, can't be blamed if he gets indignant.

So the citizens circuating petitions calling for the death of California's income tax should be having a field day this week reaping the signatures of tax-conscious wage and salary earners on every Main Street in the state.

CALIFORNIA'S WAR BABIES

They broke all the birth records of all the years since '49, did California's war babies of '41.

Storks were in the air thicker than training planes as 125,000 blessed events went into the record—a marked increase over the 111,840 born in 1940, before the war clouds turned black.

It was so in the last war; a nation troubled, young men going forth to die, and a bumper crop of new babies. It is good that this is so in this war also. It gives the lie to any thought that our way of life is doomed because our youth is cynical and hopeless and spirtually beaten.

As always, with youth's sureness that it can solve the depressing present and make the world of tomorrow a place of happiness, young men and women marry in this Golden State, and begin their precious families—the while they prepare for fighting abroad and civilian defense at home.

Such California youth cannot be beaten by all the adverse and malicious forces in the world of today.

JUNE BRIDES IN UNIFORM

In one respect only does the June bride of 1942 seem like the brides of past Junes: she is happy and radiant and lovely, as June brides always are. But she isn't as light-hearted. War has made a deep difference — this war whose battlefronts stretch from beyond the wide seas to include the Main Streets and Shady Lanes of California. And every bride is in uniform.

Maybe her uniform is of military cut—she's an Army nurse or Red Cross worker or member of the AWVS. But a plain house dress or business suit is a war uniform just the same. when the American girl goes to donate her blood, or to take her post watching for hostile airplanes, or to her tasks in Civilian Defense. Honeymoons are short. If not out altogether. The man in uniform leaves his bride at home, but he doesn't leave her in safety. She, too, is at the front, the home front, where there are risks to take and toil to perform.

There'll be brides more carefree in happier years to come —but never lovelier or finer than our Brides in Uniform of 1942. Here's to them!

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

WHEN you consider the new products we've seen developed in our time . . . you'd think that just about everything worth while in the world was invented in the last few years.

It's kind of refreshing, for a change, to find out that some pleasant things in our modern life date way back to ancient days.

For instance — I read the other day about a piece of pottery some scientists dug up in Mesopotamia. On the pottery was a picture of two brewery workers making beer.

That picture was 6,000 years old!

You know, that's something to think about. Beer...6,000 years ago! I wonder if it tasted anything like the good lager beer I have sent up to the house every now and then.

Somewhere else, I read that beer came over on the Mayflower — in fact, if I remember right, a shortage of beer was one of the reasons why the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock instead of somewhere else.

Interesting, isn't it, the way a simple, everyday beverage like beer can get tangled up with history!

Maybe it's because there's something fundamental and human about beer. It's the beverage of moderate, sensible, well-behaved people in every part of the world, and always has been.

Personally, I like it because it tastes so good and is so refreshing . . . and I know I can trust it. And I get a thrill out of thinking that maybe some writer fellow back in ancient Egypt or ancient Mesopotamia, thousands of years ago, felt the same way about beer as I do.

It's a small world, after all . . .

WELL, USE YOUR LEGS

News in Rhyme Over KJBS
Written by Harley M. Leete, Jr.

If gas is rationed. do not blubber;
It's done to save our precious rubber.
Do not chisel, do not cry,
Do not heave a mournful sigh.
For now, our government knows best:
It tells us how, we do the rest.
No more sparking parties now.
Though business use, we must allow.
The faster and farther on rubber we roll,
The harder and longer our battle's toll.
That pleasure ride's a poor mirage,
Just leave your car in your garage.
We'll soon make one discovery sweet;
We still have plenty of legs and feet.
Yep, look right down—there they are!
Big and healthy, up to par!
Till striken Nazis beg a truce,
We'll put those legs to double use.
As a constant means to recreation.
They'll take some middle off our nation.
A pleasant place? Sure let's go there;
But make the trip on old shanks' mare.
Shanks only rarely go too fast.
And have no tank that must be gassed.
They do not even burn up hay—
The same set's good for work and play!
All you need is a little food,
And your legs are in a walking mood.
So stick your feet in a pair of shoes.
Go out and spread the glad good news.
That legs are made to walk and dance,
Not merely a place to hang your pants!
Get out of the autoists nervous crouch;
Rid your form of the steering wheel grouch!
You can see a lot at a walking pace.
That you miss in an auto's headlong race.
As exercise ankles, toes and knees,
Enjoy the birds, the posies and bees,
You'll reduce the area where you sit.
A daily walk will keep you fit.
As you drink wour fill of good fresh air,
Just thank the Lord for old shanks' mare.

The lucky guy in the upper...

Army regulations require that soldiers traveling in Pullman troop trains sleep two in each lower berth and one in each upper.

Obviously, the man in the upper berth gets the best break.

Which reminds us that a lot of travelers who have never ridden in upper berths may not realize how comfortable they are.

An upper berth is more than six feet long and three feet wide — same as a lower. It has the same comfortable mattress, the same clean sheets and warm blankets, the same reading lights. The only thing missing is a window, and that doesn't make any difference now, as war regulations require window shades to be drawn at night, anyhow.

Also, an upper berth costs considerably less than a lower.

Our locomotives and cars are urgently needed for war traffic, hence we are trying to avoid extra sections or adding cars to our regular trains.

So if the next time you travel by train, you find nothing but uppers left, don't feel that you're "roughing it". Lots of people prefer an upper.

SCOOP THURMAN ALL SET FOR ASSEMBLY RACE

Assemblyman Allen G. Thurman, who represents Nevada County in the lower house of the state legislature, was the first major candidate to file his nomination papers, with the county clerk of his home county of Placer, last Wednesday, the first day for the filing of nomination papers. He announced his candidacy for reelection last April.

Thurman is the only active newspaperman in the state assembly which is composed of eighty members. Of the total membership, during the 1941 session, 28 were attorneys, 13 were ranchers and farmers, 7 real estate and insurance men while the balance of the membership was made up of teachers, engineers, business men, contractors, railroad men, and one preacher, one undertaker and one chamber of commerce secretary.

The assemblyman representing this, the largest district in the state legislature, has been editor of the Colfax Record for nearly 22 years and has resided continuously in the district for 24 years. He was first elected to the legislature in 1938.

County Cost of Government $31.05 Per Capita

Charities and corrections accounted for 60 per cent of the per capita payments by Nevada County government in 1940-41, California Taxpayers association stated today, following its study of cost payments by the county governments throughout the state.

The overall per capita payment for the county government was $31.05 for the year. Of this, $18.56 was for charities and corrections, $4.13 for general government purposes, $1.87 for protection to persons and property, $4.97 for highways and bridges and $1.52 for other county activities and association found.

Expenditures for charities and corrections included relief payments to the needy aged, blind, children and county indigents, as well as hospital service provided by the county government and other welfare items, such as probation, detention, etc.

Pointing out that the county budget for next year is now in preparation, the association said:

"Public officials in California this budget season face one of the hardest problems it has ever been their lot to have to solve in many years.

"They must carry on the essential services with which their governments are charged. In addition, they face the fact that the average citizen does not know exactly what each governmental unit does and its responsibilities. Anyone who lives in an incorporated area in California has at least five governmental units doing things for him and spending his money—the federal government, the state, the county, the city and the school district."

SUPPOSE THIS WERE YOUR HOME!

IT MIGHT VERY WELL BE. War is no respecter of persons. Homes of other folk all over the world have been destroyed. You can't dismiss it by saying, "It can't happen here." Home means much more than a house. It isn't only your house that is threatened, it is you as an individual—your right to life, to liberty, to worship as you please, to read the truth, to hear the truth, to speak the truth. These are the rights that make your house a home. You'll keep these American rights only if we and our allies drop more bombs, build more planes and ships, keep our production lines busier than do our foes. There is something for each of us to do—something that must be done. Figure out what your job is and then give it everything you've got. Working together with such spirit, we shall speed the day of triumph and peace.

The job of this company is to supply the power and fuel needed, no matter how unexpected the demand nor what the emergency.

"Oh yes, so I did. Let me read that again." "Our research department has discovered inventions capable of providing every family on earth within ten years, with $25,000 homes, finest radio equipment, television, automatic news equipment, air conditioning—sea shore, mountain, or desert air, fruit trees, vegetable gardens, fountains streams, over a period of ten years, built for each family."

"Well," says Moon, "I'm for it all right. It's got the Townsend Plan and Ham'n Eggs backed clear off the map—this Mankind United. But how are they going to do all this is what I'd like to know. Does it tell anything about that Uncle Willie?"

"Yes and no. Not very much. It says there'll be an International Legion of Vigilantes who are to be prepared for various responsibilities during the Institute's program of proclamations." Whatever that means." It's quite awhile evidently since this book was printed, so maybe Hitler and Mussolini and the Japs are doing their vigilante stuff right now."

At this moment Mamie ,who had been reading the evening paper shoted "Willyum, I want you to listen to what it says here in this paper —"Disclosures of asserted anti-war activities of Mankind United, which continued after Pearl Harbor, were announced by the Assembly's Subservice Committee yesterday and the hearings will be opened tomorrow. One statement from Mankind United pamphlets is particularly obnoxious when it states "Every day that we (Mankind United), or our defense branch can delay war production—saves millions of lives."

Mamie hastily arose from her chair. "So that's the kind of people that are giving you all these pipe dreams is it? Give me that book." And with that she grabbed the book from the bewildered William and chucked it into the kitchen stove. And so ended another of Willie's dreams of luxury and idleness.

HUGE AND HAIRY KONGO, GORILLA, IN TOWN MONDAY

Kongo is coming. Who's Kongo? Well he is one of six gorilla inhabitants of the United States. Only six of these great primates in the country and ordinarily they dont live to a ripe old age away from their African homeland. But J. L. Lewis, owner of Kongo has brought this animal up from babyhood. He was only 11 months old when he came from Sierra Leone, a Belgian colony.

Kongo is now nine years old and weighs 265 pounds, that is his stipped weight so to speak. He is just about as intelligent, Mr. Lewis states, as a six year old human and does all manner of tricks and is pleased as Punch to do them. The owner hopes to keep Kongo alive and healthy for his full life span, usually, so it is said, their longevity is the same as a human being.

The show will be in town on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at Main and Broad Street. Children everywhere have flocked to see Kongo and have been fascinated by his deft tricks which are strangely contrasted with his huge, hairy bulk.

TOUGH FIRE SEASON IS IN PROSPECT

The California Division of Forestry urges special care be taken this year to prevent fires inasmuch as the war confronts California with the toughest over all fire problem to be found in the United States.

In a letter to The Nugget, Kenneth I. Fulton, director of natural resources, states:

The war confronts California with the toughest over-all fire problem to be found in the United States. It intensifies the already dangeous fire hazards within our forests and watersheds, not only because of acts of sabotage and incendiarism by enemies but also through the acute and growing shortage of manpower and the difficulties of obtaining much-needed additional equipment.

The California State Council of Defense, Division of Forestry and the State Board of Forestry and cooperating agencies are trying to meet this shortage in various ways:

1—By building up an auxiliary force, for use in emergencies, of high school and college students who will be trained in fire fighting techniques.

2—By organizing farm workers as volunteer firemen.

3—By using prison labor.

4—By recruitment from any other sources.

The California Division of Forestry asks you to help acquaint the public with the need not only for being extra careful with cigarettes, camp fires, and automobiles, but also with the necessity of reporting fires to the state rangers or other constituted authority. The Division of Forestry must rely upon the press as the chief means of educating and urging the people to help in preserving their own natural resources.

KENNETH I. FULTON,
Director of Natural Resources.

Spends Memorial Day Here—

Harold Young of the bay district spent Memorial Day weekend with his mother, Mrs. Minnie Young and other relatives here.

PROMOTED—Lieut. Col. Florence A. Blanchfield, assistant to Col. Julia L. Flikke, superintendent of the Army Nurse Corps, took a prominent part at the first meeting of the A.N.C. in Washington recently. She served overseas in 1917-18 and since 1920 has had many stations, including Army hospitals in China and the Philippines.

S. F. CIVIL ARMY TO AID HARVESTS

Against the growing cry for food and more food to serve American civilians and fighting men alike, seven San Francisco agencies today will begin the task of registering San Franciscans for wartime harvest work.

Participating in the united wartime harvest effort are the Agricultural Committee of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce, the municipal Aegional Service Committee, the YMCA, and the San Francisco Co-Ordinating Council.

Actual registration will be handled at two convenient locations — the Civilian Defense Council at 532 Market Street, and the United States Employment Service, 1690 Mission Street. A corps of expert clerks has been organized at each point to speed registration.

Sponsors of the San Francisco Wartime Harvest Program have warned that the work will be hard. Balanced against that, however, is the fact that such activity will be a manifestation of patriotism by all who volunteer T.here is an added attraction in that the work will be healthful as well as profitable, since volunteers will be enabled to take part in a "back to the earth" movement at prevailing wages.

While adults —individuals and families—will register with the CDC of the USES, sturdy San Francisco school youths 16 years old or over have already volunteered to aid in the vital work. The San Francisco public schools have launched a registration campaign and new names are daily being added to the list of those who feel that food will play a vital role in winning the war. And requests for nearly 700 students have already been received by school authorities. They will be carried to the fields or orchard where work is to be done, and there cared for under the direction of the YMCA which has volunteered to aid this phase of the program. Expert counselors will watch over the boys, safeguarding morals and health as they aid their country.

FAGS BAGS, NEW DEVICE FOR FIRE PREVENTION

Tahoe Forest officials are appealing to all housewives in this area for the donation of empty flour, sugar and muslin sacks to be converted into "Fag Bags"—the "fag bags" are small red sacks fitted with a draw string. One is given to each motorist and recreationist by foresters in which to place their cigarettes, pipes, matches and other smoking paraphernalia when they enter the forests. Thus when a person smokes it becomes necessary for him not only to remove the smoking material from his pocket but from the bright red "fag bag" too, and in this way becomes a check on thoughtless smokers who might otherwise become careless with their matches and cigarette stubs.

Mac Edmonds assistant supervisor of the Tahoe National Forest in charge of fire control stated that the "fag bag" idea was first used in Southern California where it has become a very popular fire prevention measure. Edmonds intends to send the donated sacks to the Angeles National Forest where the Girl Scouts will dye the cloth and make the bags. The completed "fag bags" will be returned here for distribution.

This sacking may be left at the forest service office on Pine Street in Nevada City and with Miss Edith Scott at the Chamber of Commerce in Grass Valley. Residents of the twin cities are urged to participate in this drive as a part of a unified effort to prevent destruction of the counties' timber and grazing resources.

MEMORIAL DAY VISITORS

Mrs. E. R. McMath and Mrs. Wild of San Francisco and Mrs. Edith Wood of Napa spent Memorial Day weekend visiting with Mrs. Ida Guenther and Mrs. Will Jeffrey. Mrs. McMath and Mrs. Wild are sisters of Mrs. Guenther and Mrs. Jeffrey.

McMath, ardent sportsman whose name was the first of 500 drawn to hunt antelope for the first time in years in this state, went hunting while his wife visited here.

T. A. Davies Visits Mother—

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Davis of San Anselmo, former residents, were Memorial Day visitors with Davis' mother, Mrs. E. K. Davis of the Blue Tent area. Mr. and Mrs. Davis are always happy to return to Nevada City, which they consider one of the beauty spots of the world.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder at the artful ones
Who practice to deceive,
And also at the artless ones
Too ready to believe.
And I applaud the truly wise
Who stop and think and analyze.

Not long since, the leaders of a cult who counted their gullible followers by the thousands were indicted by the federal government convicted of fraud and punished accordingly.

The fanstastic theories expounded by the proponents of this particular cult, were too absurd for credence by any thinking person, but yet they were accepted and supported by many sincere and presumably intelligent people, who paid out their hard or easily earned cash for books, pamphlets, icons, edicts, et.c, etc. Strange, the leaders of the cult lived in costly hotels, traveled extensively and always de luxe and wore large and very bright diamonds. The humble neophytes were promised great wealth, happiness and possibly diamonds in the world beyond—but isn't that the usual way?

A modicum of analytic thinking should be potent protection from the wiles of avaricious persons who trade upon the credulity of those whose minds and money they seek to captivate. But the more improbable the bait offered, the more readily is it taken. Why? Perhaps because so many purveyors of menal nostrums caution their victims, by telling them, not to think, not to analyze but to let the great flood of mumbo jumbo flow into their receptive souls and take possession once and for all. If the theories of a cult, inseed of any faith either religious or political are unfit for the open minded investigator, it is unworthy of any one's adherence. If its leaders are afraid to say, "come, let us reason together," we may regard them as predators, seeking whom they may exploit. The theories they advance are sure to be to the mind what strong dring is to the body, and of them it may well be said, "he who is deceived thereby is not wise."

Just recently a student in one of our eastern colleges was acclaimed by his mates as their most talented under graduate. In accordance with pre laid plans, he trecked to a distant city to make his debut upon a popular radio program. It was, 'Am An American Day, and the song selected and sung by the talented one was titled, I Don't Want to Walk Without You, Baby! Now, what had that song to do with with I Am An American Week? Oh well, the singer couldn't have been thinking of Schickelgruber as he sang, and it maybe that depreciation of music is fast becoming a fine art which may, in time, be added to the list of high school and college extra curricular activities.

Uncle Silas says: "If Mussolini was as tall as The Leaning Tower of Pisa, you wouln't be able to tell 'em apart."—A. Merriam Conner.
